Beane, Decker Resign From College Positions

Mr. James Beane and Mr. Randall Decker have resigned from the faculty of St. Joseph's College. Mr. Beane's resignation has already gone into effect, whereas Mr. Decker will remain with the college until this June.

Mr. Beane, who served as assistant professor of physical education, left the college last week. According to Rev. Joseph Smolar, athletic director, an offer from General Motors prompted Mr. Beane's sudden decision.

Named Baseball Coach in 1951

After joining the college faculty in 1951 as intramural director, Mr. Beane was appointed baseball coach later in the year. His first efforts at this position in 1952 brought the new mentor a record of one victory, five losses, and a lone tie game.

Thereafter Coach Beane had three successful seasons with records of 14-2 and second place in the Indiana Collegiate Conference, 14 and three to win the conference championship in 1954, and 12-4 for second place last spring.

Devises New IM Program

As intramural director, Mr. Beane inaugurated a completely new program devised to eliminate the domination which a few teams have had in intramurals in past years. Participating team members must now play for their own residence hall, which they represent in the race for the All-Sports Trophy.

Rev. Daniel Schaefer, dean of men, and senior John F. White will conduct the intramural program for the duration of the year. No plans have been made public yet as to who will fill the post next year.

Jauron To Coach Baseball

Taking the reins this spring in baseball will be head football coach Bob Jauron. Coach Jauron, who was offered a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals after his graduation from high school, achieved baseball success in the outfield at Boston College.

He will be assisted in his new position by basketball coach Dale O'Connell. Mr. O'Connell has coaching experience from his work with various Little League teams.

As Freshman class moderator, Mr. Beane also helped in orientation earlier this year. Co-moderator Rev. Ambrose Ruschau will hold the office exclusively this semester.

Decker Buys Newspaper

Mr. Decker will leave St. Joseph's in June to take over the Worcester Times of Worcester, N. Y. He recently purchased the weekly news paper and will take possession after this semester.

This is Mr. Decker's third year at St. Joseph's where he is in charge of the publicity department. Among the other posts are: editor of Contact (the alumni news-

Twelve Angry Men To Be Presented On March 5, 6

The evenings of March 5 and 6 have been selected for the Columbian Players' presentation of Reginald Rose's "Twelve Angry Men."

The play, which won for its author the television "Emmy Award," is essentially a study of the personalities of twelve jurors faced with a tremendous problem: whether to sentence a young boy to the electric chair on the seemingly irrefutable testimony given during the trial, or to decide that the evidence is not convincing, and let him go free.

The cast, which has been selected by Mr. Ralph Cappuccilli, consists of Bill Gleason, John J. White, Ed Hebda, Charlie Vietzen, John Frisz, William Walters, Bernie Balas, Jack Carlson, Leo Zeisel, Ray Malik, J. O. Smith, Bob Kilbourne and Greg Barrett.

The Columbian Players have decided to give "Twelve Angry Men" as their entry in the one-act play festival held at Marian College in Indianapolis March 17 and 18. They have also decided that Mr. Cappuccilli will direct the play at that time, instead of the customary student director.

Mr. Cappuccilli has once more announced the fact that he needs more actors, stage men, make-up men and publicity men. To accomplish what he contemplates doing with the Columbian Players, he will need many more than are now enrolled in the club.

Mahoney Replaces Station as Editor

Sophomore Tom Mahoney has been named new editor of STUFF by Rev. James Hinton. Mahoney replaces Jim Station who resigned from the position last week.

Mahoney will assume his new duties with the next issue, although Station will stay on until the new editor can take over completely.

Sanguinists Inaugurate New Student Ride Bureau

by Urban Thobe

A "ride bureau" has been set up here at St. Joseph's by members of the Sanguinist club. The bureau, which is under the supervision of the Student Council, will go into effect this weekend as the beginning of a four week trial basis. If successful during this first month, the bureau will be maintained throughout the year.

The new system should help to eliminate the weekend and pre-vacation scramble for rides among the students. The plan is very simple, according to the Sanguinists, and can be divided into two main parts.

Drivers Sign Lists On Thursday

First, during the noon and evening meals on Thursdays, all students who are driving cars home and desire passengers will fill out a list in the cafeteria. This list will include the driver's name, campus address, destination, time of departure, number of riders desired, and, if they choose, the fee per rider.

There will be four different lists, each corresponding to a general direction. As an example, Chicago and suburbs, the Region, and points northwest will constitute one list.

Riders Check Lists Friday

Second, on Friday at the noon and evening meals students looking for rides will sign their names under the drivers of their choice. Riders will then have to locate their drivers themselves.

A table will be provided for the bureau at some convenient point in the cafeteria.

The Sanguinist club is the Catholic Action organization of St. Joseph's and offers this service to fill what it considers "an obvious need in the student community."

10 Graduate At Semester

Ten St. Joseph's seniors completed their Collegeville careers with semester examinations last month. Nine Bachelor of Science and one Bachelor of Arts degrees were awarded to the graduates.

Those who received B.S. degrees were:

William Ehrhart and Francis Lawler of Chicago in Accounting; Robert Clark of Chicago, Louis Giacomini of Gary, and William Schulte of Park Hills, Ky., in Business Administration; George Brown of Whiting and Robert Michalski of Mansfield, Ohio, in Geology; Lynn Tabaka of Urbana, Ill., in Marketing; and Chester Pilat of Monroe, Mich., in Physical Education.

Jacob Voelker of Calumet City, Ill., received a B.A. in History.

by Lou Basseti

Johnny Lane, who will be featured at the Mardi Gras Dance, has promised "his best" for the Feb. 11 date. He plans to mix danceable numbers with the extreme tempo of true Dixieland and assures us of "an outstanding performance by each member of his band."

Lane began his jazz career in 1948 and has since received star write-ups in the Chicago Tribune, the Chicago Sun-Times, Downbeat Magazine, the Booster, and other publications.

He has been featured with his combo at many clubs and lounges in Chicago during the past eight years and has also had successful engagements in New Orleans. After his performance here at St. Joseph's, Lane will return to New Orleans with his clarinet for the annual Mardi Gras festivities down there.

Brunis Joins Lane

As an added feature this Saturday evening, Lane has obtained Georg Brunis, noted trombonist who played for St. Joseph's Mardi Gras last year. The two jazz artists have played previously with such Dixieland greats as Muggsy Spanier, Gene Krupa, Jess Stacy and Wingy Manone.

Decorations for the Mardi Gras are also slanted to create a "Bourbon Street" atmosphere. Decorations chairman Bob Pitt and his assistants have centered their efforts around large, painted masks and faces which will hang from the walls of Raleigh Hall.

Flowing streamers will surround these masks and 3,000 multi-colored balloons will hang from the ceiling. Noisemakers, confetti, masks, and assorted hats and streamers will be at each table, which will be covered with red and white checked table cloths.

Help is still needed by the dance committee to decorate Raleigh Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday morning and afternoon.

Ticket sales have been going well, according to dance chairman Frank Unger, and there is little room left. Reservations which have not been paid for will not be held after Wednesday night. The price of tickets is $3 a couple.

Seven Make 4.00 On Dean's List

Seven of the 42 men on the Dean's List for the first semester maintained a perfect 4.00 index, or straight A's. They are: seniors Richard Barnett and Marvin Hackman; sophomores Cyril Gulassa, Kevin Hensley and James O'Brien; freshmen David Carey and Paul Stucker.

Thirty-five other students qualified by making better than a 3.50 index. The senior class placed three others: Peter Higgins, Timothy O'Brien, and Roger Uecker.

Besides the three 4.00 students, the sophomores had 10 others on the list including: Thomas Alter, Robert Caporal, John Crackel, James Detloff, Edward Kolaszyk, Robert Li, George Schmid, James Sabota, Thomas Stucker, and William Walters.

Ten freshmen and a special student rounded out the group. They are: Robert Baker, John Coombes, Philip Donegan, Robert Fitzgerald, James Franck, Robert Koch, Joseph Kovitch, John Kupiec, Howard Liflick, and Charles Roache. The special student is Rev. Bernard Meiring.

Members of the Dean's List are excused from the requirements of the cut system for the following grading period unless, in a particular instance, the instructor rules otherwise.

Entrance Road Needs Repair

Although the college has gone to great trouble and expense to improve the campus this past year, they seem to be ignoring one problem which is paramount to the student body. After all the new building and remodeling that has taken place, the north entrance road to the campus is still in need of repair.

Minor attempts have been made to improve the condition of the road, but none of them have done much good.

Gaping holes have been filled only to appear again after a month's use of the roadway. The state recently even made a half-hearted attempt to repair the entranceway, but that too is once again a series of chuck-holes.

A few months ago the Student Council approached the administration and asked that something be done to repair the road permanently. To this date the request seems to have gone unheard.

Since the students who have cars on campus are restricted to the use of this road when entering and leaving school, it seems imperative that an adequate paving job should be done.

The road is also extremely narrow and it is practically impossible for two cars to pass each other. When they do happen to meet, one car is forced to pull off the pavement and wait until the oncoming auto has passed.

It would be well worth the trouble and expense if the college would recognize and remedy this situation. If the problem cannot be solved in the near future, it might not be too inconvenient to make the north entrance road one-way. The main entranceway could then be used for one-way outgoing traffic.

With almost 150 automobiles running in and out of the campus numerous times each day, adequate provisions should be made for them.

Just a little widening and repaving would remedy an indeed serious situation.

Prepare Now, Practice Later

With Lent just around the corner, it is once again time to take an inventory of our souls.

Here at St. Joseph's we, as students, have every opportunity to prepare ourselves spiritually for the religious hardships which we must invariably face in the future. Once we have left college, our only contact with our religion in most cases will be through our parish churches.

Unless we draw ourselves close to Christ in our few remaining years here at St. Joseph's, this contact may not be enough. It is important for us to learn now what is necessary for a successful life later in life.

This knowledge cannot be acquired simply from the classroom. We must learn through constant prayer and thought. And what better time is there to thus learn than during Lent?

This Lenten season why not take a few minutes each day to think about and prepare for later life.

As college men we have passed the stage when giving up movies, candy and the like are sufficient to fulfill our Lenten obligations.

Knowledge Worth Trip

By Tom Skinner

When one hears of a student who travels approximately 8,500 miles a year to attend college, he usually thinks the student is from a foreign country or else he is from one of the coastal states. There is a student at St. Joe's who does that much traveling but does not fall into either of those categories.

Bill Riegle has worked since his graduation from high school in 1953 in order to attend college, and still works at a gas station on Saturdays and sometimes Sundays. He is majoring in business and intends to work in the sales field upon graduation.

His school day (he usually studies between classes and until about 10 p.m.) is further lengthened during football season when he plays either half-back or end for the Pumas. He is one of the smallest men on the team, standing 5'-10" and weighing 150 pounds. He and Bob Hamman were also team-mates on football teams at A. J. Kent High School, Kentland, Indiana, 27 miles from St. Joe.

On Campus

By Harry Pluth

Quite a few freshmen have been pushing the idea of having a frosh mixer. A few of their reasons: it's almost impossible for a freshman to fight the mob in order to meet some of the girls; and if he should succeed, he may end up with a girl who is in a higher class. It seems that girls would rather be with someone their own age or older.

Another point is that freshmen are more restricted than the other classes when it comes to going off campus for social activities, mainly through the lack of transportation. One of the suggestions was for a mixer to be arranged, probably here at St. Joseph's, especially for the freshmen.

They have a good point. Anyone who has gone to a mixer here on campus realizes how badly the girls are outnumbered. And looking at it from the girls' point of view, many of them who are in the upper classes don't come to mixers here because, they say, all they meet are freshmen.

The increased enrollment here at St. Joe has increased the swarm at mixers, and almost half of this year's student body is made up of freshmen. Maybe some solution can be found in the freshmen suggestion. But the problem isn't so simple, for might not the other classes desire their own mixer? That would give birth to another problem.

There is a group of students on campus looking into the possibilities of forming a Rifle club . . . We'll hear more about this later if they get the OK.

For those in Bennett and Noll halls who have been feeling their way along the sidewalk and road after dark . . . The superintendent of buildings and grounds relieves the situation and it shouldn't be too long until we have some lights.

Music Reaches All Classes

By Jim O'Brien

Robert Scholz, following the performance of his American Chamber Orchestra, declared that art, music included, is the "transmission of an expression." Mr. Scholz also declared that the audiences which witness the orchestra's productions can usually be divided into two groups.

There is the erudite group, consisting of persons versed in classical music. These persons analyze music from a technical point of view. Truly they understand music, and they perpetuate that music which deserves to be perpetuated.

Plain average people make up the bulk of each audience the orchestra plays to. Comprehend and judge such music they are unable to do. Yet even these must feel the surge of something meaningful and beautiful underlying the sounds of distinctive music.

"Tremendous receptivity" were the words Mr. Scholz used when describing the reaction of the St. Joe audience. "Everyone in that audience must have experienced the feeling that this was extraordinary."

The concert was superb. The musicians filed onto the stage and took their seats. They sat in simple concave arrangement. The men wore black tuxedos; the women wore black gowns. Contrasting sharply with this black attire was the lighted stage and light background.

"Warming-up" was brief. Conductor Scholz walked out, bowed and ascended the dais.

He turned to the orchestra, and each musician prepared to begin. He cocked his arms. Then began the movements which drew forth harmony for an hour and a half.

Precision and delicacy were presented throughout the concert. The violin, the viola, the oboe, the cello, the string bass, the french horn, the clarinet. Each contributed its share to the warm musical picture drawn by conductor Scholz.

Heleen Kwalwasser, the concertmistress of the orchestra, was the main soloist. She handled the Violin Concerto in D Minor with delicate balance.

Orchestral selections that were well received included Overture to "The Rival Sisters" (Purcell), Concerto for Violin and Oboe in C Minor (Bach) and Divertimento No. 11 (Mozart).

The St. Joe concert was one in a tour through the Midwest. During the tour the orchestra is playing mainly to college audiences.

Fund-Raising Workshop Scheduled for June

By Lou Bassetti

The second annual conference for "Workshop in Catholic Institutional Fund-raising" has been proposed for the third week in June of next year, although definite dates have not yet been scheduled.

The first annual "Workshop," held June 6-9 last spring here on St. Joseph's campus was the first of its kind attempted anywhere. The conference was conducted by four professional fund raising firms:

- (1) The American City Bureau
- (2) The Thomas R. Finn Association
- (3) The Wells Organization
- (4) The Community Counseling Service.

73 People Attend Conference

The spring conference was attended by 73 people, including priests, brothers, sisters and lay people. Of the attending group, seven different male communities, eight sisterhoods, and lay people were represented. There were many varied types of institutions represented, among which were 21 parishes, seven dioceses, eight religious communities, 13 hospitals and 24 colleges.

St. Joseph's was represented by Rev. John M. Lefko, who is the director of the St. Joseph's College Foundation. Father Lefko received many letters of praise from people who requested more information and copies of speeches made at the conference last spring.

One of the speakers at the conference was Walter L. Darling, the vice-president of the American City Bureau, who brought out the important fact that almost all of the 1800 colleges and universities are in either the midst of, have just completed or are contemplating some form of fund-raising effort to increase their income.

Good Public Relations Necessary

Mr. Darling brought to light some very interesting points in regard to fund raising. "Good public relations," said Mr. Darling, "are imperative for successful college fund-raising. A college fund-raising is not a campaign—rather, it is a continuing public relations program."

Mr. Darling explained college fund-raising as opposed to other types. "College fund-raising," said Mr. Darling, "is different from any other field of voluntary philanthropy. A college, unlike other fund campaigns, has to have two kinds of money at the same time. It has to have money to augment its normal income from tuitions, fees, and other things, for operational purposes in order that it may continue to live.

"But at the same time, a college must seek money for the above purposes, it also has to seek money for physical plans, expansion to enable it to grow, and to meet the demands that are being placed upon it. A college is the only area of voluntary philanthropy which must combine both kinds of money at one and the same time, and continuously."

Philanthropy Is No Business

In one of the many speeches at the conference the idea of fund-raising was clarified: "Any fund-raising campaign is a merchandising process. To raise money for a new building, for major renovations, to pay off a debt or for operating expenses involves four basic steps: planning, public relations, organization and solicitation."

Another speaker, Mr. Fred Eberlein, in his "Formula for Successful Fund-raising," stressed the importance of the avoidance of costly mistakes. "By far the greatest mistake in institutional fund-raising," said Mr. Eberlein, "is the lack of realization that philanthropy is not a business, it is charitable and it is voluntary."

The conference ended with a look to the future with hope for success in the years to come. This can be quite well summed up in an excerpt from one of the many speeches given at the time.

"Sell" the Contributors

"Fund-raising success logically depends upon the organization of the groups of people through whom you may work for your fund-raising plans fulfillment. Your task is to 'sell' these people—to make them aware that they are responsible for strengthening the Church, as well as its institutions and are the ambassadors of your cause.

Only through organization can you obtain active participation and understanding and cultivate the desire and attitude that makes each person a missionary, carrying warmth and a conviction in behalf of the Church or institution seeking the funds.

"Every Catholic campaign is an act of faith. Thus, fund raising becomes more than only an orderly and effective combination of education, planning, organization and mechanics. Each such campaign truly is a crusade as it presents an exceptional opportunity for the combination of leadership, dedications, loyalty and drama so highly important to fund-raising practices."

Varsity Views

A unique experiment by two of the league's leading contenders occurred last weekend with Valpo and Butler's home-and-home games scheduled on successive nights. Schedule makers usually try to get as much spread as possible between the two home games, but this year tradition was flouted. Fans watched with interest the results of the situation where players had fresh memories of opposing tactics and the previous evening's mistakes.

But what did it accomplish? Butler routed the Crusaders by 23 points Friday night, only to fall by the same margin at Valpo Saturday. Since it proved to be of little advantage, maybe these schedulers will revert to the old system where a change in situation or standings could have time to develop, and interest would build up still higher.

With the first semester's games already recorded in the books, statistics show St. Joseph's placing fourth offensively with their 78.7 average while their defensive score of 83.5 ranked them last. Undoubtedly, this can be attributed in part to their poor showing at the charity stripe where they hit for 60.8 percent and last place, at the same time recording 21.1 fouls per game to put them right up there near the top. In their six games the O'Connell men hit for a .328 field goal mark and again last in the I.C.C.

On the brighter side, Dan Fenker's 14.8 rebounds per game ranks him first while his 19.8 point production earned third place. Highest field goal leader for the Pumas was Bill Lewis whose .387 mark placed tenth.

I.C.C. teams usually watch with some concern the outcome of Butler's efforts with "name" schools. This year they have defeated such teams as Wisconsin, Michigan, and Princeton, as well as giving a good showing while tasting defeat in other games. To the public it gives a good impression of our small school league, since Butler is currently riding in fifth place.

Maybe other I.C.C. squads should get a chance to bark at the Big Ten instead of Butler grabbing the glory? This year Evansville, for instance, could pick on any one of them and make a good game out of it.

Speaking of the southern city, the Aces have just two league games remaining, both at home. No doubt St. Joseph's and DePauw's upsets alone will mar their perfect record, as once again they play the role of spoilers.

Joemen Drop ICC Tilt To Indiana State 82-70

The St. Joe college basketball squad started the second semester on a sour note as the Pumas fell before Indiana State 82-70 at Terre Haute.

The Pumas, hampered by the loss of forwards Bill Lewis and Angelo Dattomo because of scholastic ineligibility, could not overcome State's height advantage as the Sycamores avenged an earlier defeat suffered at Collegeville.

Scoring honors went to Sam Richardson of Indiana State, as the big center bagged 26 points.

On February 3, the Pumas traveled to Indianapolis where they were an easy 84-67 victor over Marian College. Dan Fenker was high in St. Joe's balanced scoring with 15 points. Ron Giometti finished a close second with 14 markers.

Returning to the friendly confines of Collegeville on Feb. 4, the Pumas dumped St. Norbert's College 89-73 at the St. Joe Fieldhouse.

After a hard-fought first half, which found the Pumas leading by a slim 39-37 count, the pace of the game changed drastically with Dan Rogovich leading St. Joe to an easy victory. Rogovich's 23 points were high for St. Joseph's, but second to Jerry Lamers of St. Norbert's who finished with 28 markers.

St. Joe Second In All-Sports Race

St. Joseph's, by virtue of their football championship, is second in the race for the I.C.C. All-Sports Trophy with 19.5 points. The other eligible sport is cross-country in which the Pumas did not enter. Valpo leads with 21 points.

Ron Giometti takes a shot from the outside against Marian as Puma forward Bill Elbert looks on. Giometti scored a total of 14 points in the Pumas 84-67 victory. Center Dan Fenker was for St. Joseph's with 15 points. (Photo by Franz)

St. Joseph's to Face Ball State In Bid for Second Place Honors

by Tom Phillipp

Headlining the Pumas' hardcourt activity next week is their determined effort to revenge a tough last place Ball State team on Feb. 14. It was these same Cardinals that bumped St. Joseph's out of their first place slot three weeks ago with their stunning 106-67 upset in Muncie. The season's second to last home tilt is a must if the Pumas want to capture second place honors.

Coach Jim Hinga's charges, who floor a much stronger lineup than their 2-6 record intimates, include six men over 6 ft. 3 in. Most impressive of these are freshmen starters Wilbur Davis and John Casterlow, who control the boards with little difficulty.

Casterlow, together with sharpshooting Jerry Banker and Wayne Van Sickle at guards, ran wild in the league's highest scoring contest of the year against the Pumas.

Evansville Sews Up Crown

With first place practically sewed up by Evansville, the spotlight shifts to the wide open race for runner-up position. St. Joseph's figures prominently in the four team fight with their road tilts against Butler and DePauw, and their season's finale against Valpo.

Football Squad To Open Season Against Xavier

Athletic director Rev. Joseph Smolar has released the football schedule for the 1956 season. It includes six consecutive conference games, three at home.

Opening the season the first week of school, the Pumas will travel to Cincinnati for a game with Xavier University. It will be the first meeting for these schools on the gridiron.

Lewis, Dattomo Lost to Pumas

Forwards Bill Lewis and Angelo Dattomo are ineligible scholastically to play basketball during the second semester. Lewis led the Pumas in field goal percentages in conference play with a .387 mark for tenth place in the league. Dattomo was leading the squad in free throw percentages with .800.

New faces on the roundball squad are sophomore Ron Giometti, who returns after a semester's absence, and 5'7" Dan Rogovich. Rogovich's 23 points in the St. Norbert's game were enough to lead them to an easy victory.

Intramural Scoreboard

by John F. White

The frosh from Drexel Hall seem to be the big men as the intramural basketball season approaches the midpoint. The twice-beaten Wolves came from behind to beat the Gamokes who had emerged thus far with an unblemished record. Joe Flanagan and Tom Freehill combined for 20 points in the Wolves' 34-33 conquest of the Merlini squad.

Elsewhere in the A league we see the Leftovers of Drexel with a 4-0 record, which puts them at the top of the heap with the big Bulldogs of Bennett close behind with three wins and no losses. These two teams are scheduled to meet Feb. 21. The Bulldogs downed them in the championship game of the Student Council tourney, but the men from Drexel are going to be out to even the score.

Paul Fettig and Chuck Spielman are pacing the Starvation Five, who currently lead the C league with four wins and no losses to their credit. The league leaders from the Dorm can expect some stiff competition from the Seven Crowns of Gaspar, who also are undefeated but have only two victories.

The top spot in the B league is a crowded place. The middle loop has three teams yet to taste defeat. The Nite Trains and the Puppies with 3-0 and 2-0 records, respectively, are chasing the Chi-Guys who have won their first four without dropping any.

Complete league standings are listed below. These standings include all games played up to and including Feb. 2.

In case you hadn't noticed, all rosters are posted on the intramural bulletin board in the cafeteria. These rosters may be changed for a good reason before Friday, Feb. 9, 1956. After this time no changes will be allowed for any reason and teams playing with men not on their roster will forfeit if challenged by their opponents. If you want any changes report them to the IM office.

It is time to start organizing those volleyball teams. Six men compose a team. Eight men may be entered on a roster. Teams may be formed according to the rules applicable to the other sports. Once the deadline is set no changes for any team will be allowed so make sure you have the squad you want before turning it in. Notices will be on the bulletin board showing the date that the team rosters must be turned in.

History Club To Hold Trip

St. Joseph's History club will sponsor a field trip to Chicago on Wednesday, Feb. 22.

The group of students attending the trip will leave the campus in the morning and have lunch in Chicago. After lunch the members will tour the Chicago Historical Society, the Art Institute, and possibly the Field Museum of Natural History.

In the evening 15 members of the History club will attend the play "Inherit the Wind" starring Melvin Douglas.

Rev. Donald Shea, club moderator, and Mr. Richard Kilmer will accompany the students on the trip.

Club members held a discussion on the political issues of the 1956 elections on Feb. 7. They will also hold a bingo sometime in March to pay off a long standing debt to the Student Council.

Registration for the second semester found the Administration Building quite congested at the beginning of this month. Although many of this year's record enrollment dropped out of school, the college is still taking care of more students than in any other year in its history. (Photo by Franz)

Parents Schedule April Card Party

The Merchandise Mart in Chicago will be the site of the Mothers' club annual card party on April 27. The Fathers' club intends to raffle a 1956 Ford at this party.

The party was discussed at the recent meeting at which Mr. Salvatore Pupo, member of the education department, addressed the parents. He pointed out the various special helps that St. Joe offers to students experiencing difficulties in their studies.

At the same meeting a member of a local Selective Service board answered questions concerning the draft and how it affects college students.

Limon Dancers To Present Final Concert

Jose Limon and his dance company, probably the best known and most popular of the exponents of modern dance, will bring a close to this year's concert series on Wednesday, Feb. 29.

Limon will be the final in a series of three presentations scheduled by Mr. Richard Kilmer. The group has appeared annually in such series as the Allied Arts Dance Series at the Chicago Civic Opera House and the Kaufmann Auditorium in New York City and throughout the United States, Canada, and Europe.

Mr. Kilmer scheduled the group in and effort to widen the scope of St. Joseph's concerts. This year the three presentations included the Silvertones (a vocal quartet), the American Chamber Orchestra, and Limon's dancers.

About 15 dancers will appear here with Limon.

Commerce Club Sponsors Faculty Panel Discussion

A faculty panel discussion highlighted the last meeting of St. Joseph's Commerce club in Merlini Lounge.

Three members of the college faculty spoke to the club about different business topics.

Mr. Paul Kelly listed the numerous opportunities open to today's college graduates in the business world. The difficulties and methods involved in "how to go about getting a job" served as a basis for a talk by Mr. Arthur Marlow.

Finally, Mr. Bryce Jones explained the usefulness of an economics background as business background for Business Administration majors.

Mr. Richard Kilmer moderated the meeting which lasted about two hours. It was also announced that interested students may join the Commerce club this semester.

paper), director of the placement bureau, and assistant professor of journalism.

Mr. Decker's department puts out several news publications besides Contact. They include: Puma Press, the athletic news bulletin; Dairy Progress, a booklet on the farm; Summer Squints, for the faculty members absent from the campus during the summer; and the Call, a newspaper which was used two years ago to aid the building fund.

The college has made no announcement as to who will replace Mr. Decker in these positions.

College Glee Club to Give Thorne Hall Concert

by Manuel Pasquil

St. Joseph's College will present its Glee club, the extension school chorus, and the St. Francis College chorale in a choral concert Feb. 12 at 2:30 p.m.

The concert, under the direction of Rev. L. Heiman, will be presented in Thorne Hall, 740 North Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill. Admission for adults is $1.00 and for students $.50. Those who purchase their tickets before the concert can be assured of free parking space.

The program will take place in 2 parts. Part 1 will consist of songs from around the world by the entire Glee club. Included will be the "Alma Mater," "Holiday Song" (contemporary American), "Happy Wanderer" (German Folk song), and "Alleluia" (contemporary Dutch). Next the St. Francis College chorale will entertain with "Songs a la Treble."

On the lighter side the selections include "Halls of Ivy," "Swanee" (soloist: Bill Walters), and "Oklahoma" by the entire Glee club. The Singing Seventeen will contribute "Oh What a Beautiful Morning" and "Surrey With a Fringe on Top" (soloist: J. Matlon).

The mixed chorus will then give their renditions of "Deep River" and "Set Down, Servant" (soloist: Terry O'Hagan).

Part 2's selections are divided into 4 sections. In the first section the entire glee club will present "Hospodi Pomilui," "That's an Irish Lullaby" (soloists: Bill Gleason and Terry O'Hagan), and "Dry Bones." The Singing Seventeen's presentations in this section will consist of "The Donovans" (soloist: Bill Schuler), "Dear Old Donegal" (soloist: Bill Schuler), "De Animals a-comin'" (soloists: Bill Walters and Greg Petrin).

Barbershop favorites make up the next section. The quartet is featured in two numbers, "If I Had a Dream" and "Shine."

Following this the entire glee club joins in a tribute to Mary—"Magnificat."

The program will come to its conclusion with the mixed chorus's singing of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "The 150th Psalm."
